

QUIET WEDDING IS PERFORMED LAST EVENING

MISS ANITA SCHELD AND ARCHIE
GRAHAM MARRIED AT THE CATHOLIC CHURCH.

Last evening at 8:30 o'clock, at the Catholic church, John Archibald Graham and Miss Anita Scheld were united in marriage by the Rev. Father Butler. The announcement of the wedding came as a surprise to the many friends of the young couple for both are favorite members of the younger set. An endeavor was made to keep the ceremony quiet, but somehow it managed to leak out. Mrs. A. A. Dewar, the bride's sister, and Charles Johnson attended the happy pair.

The bride is one of the most handsome young ladies in this city and has resided here a number of years. She is a daughter of H. W. Scheld, one of Tonopah's attorneys. Mrs. Graham has a large circle of friends and her presence is always in demand at parties and entertainments which are not considered complete without the attendance of this accomplished young lady.

The groom is employed at the MacNamara mine and has a large number of friends here. He is to be congratulated on securing such a charming partner through life.

The newly married couple will make their future home in this city, which is most gratifying news to their army of well wishers.

TALC LODE STEADY IN THE SHOSHONE NATIONAL BANK

RHYOLITE, Feb. 22.—The Shoshone National bank remains unchanged materially from last week's condition. The drift has been continued all week on the talc formation. The ledge is regular, both as to size and value. It holds about three feet in the bottom and a little over one foot at the top of the drift. Alues are present, but small. Crosscut work has been started from the shaft to reach the north end of the basalt dyke. It is thoroughly estimated that this will require between twenty and thirty feet of work. Talc float found on the property, which was the direct reason for the work in this place, was claimed by some to have come from the talc contact. Superintendent Kennedy has always favored the talc side, but he will prospect the other before sinking where he is. S. H. F. Homeshaw, president of the Shoshone National Bank, was in camp this week, making temporary arrangements for operations. It is understood that the work will be timed more vigorously when the present arrangement terminates. The officials are well pleased with the outlook of the property.

Four hundred young women have shown over from England to find husbands. That will be all right if they are just as careful about whose husbands they tackle.

HELENA LEASE UNCOVERS LARGE BODY OF ORE

BODY OF HIGH GRADE SEVEN FEET IN WIDTH RETURNS
HIGH ASSAYS.

J. C. McCormack, president of the Broken Hills company at Helena, came in from that district last evening accompanied by F. A. Lucy of Goldfield. Both gentlemen have spent the last few days looking over the workings of the big property and also inspecting the different leases.

Mr. McCormack brought in the news of a strike on block 26, which is being operated by the Helena Leasing company. This property lies 500 feet southwest of the big property and the find was made on a separate vein. The ledge was uncovered in a drift, where the entire face is now in ore. It is thought that this body will average from six to eight feet in width and picked samples gave returns of over $500 a ton, but it is estimated that the average will be in the vicinity of $200 a ton. The drift was run from the fifty-seven foot level of the shaft.

"In the big property," said Mr. McCormack, "they are now sacking ore from the incline and in two other places, one on the surface and the other in a drift. Three shafts are being worked in most places in the mine and the force of employees has been steadily increased during the last few months. About 2000 sacks of high grade are now stacked up waiting for the teams to haul them to this city. One of the ore teams left Goldfield this morning and will immediately proceed to Helena and start hauling the ore.

The poles for the telephone line are now erected into the camp, while the wires are strung beyond McKinney tanks. It is thought that through communication will be established by the first of the month.

Mr. McCormack and Mr. Lucy left last evening for Goldfield and from there Mr. McCormack will leave this morning for San Francisco.

F. W. BLACKMAN ON IRRIGATION OF ARID LANDS

Relation of Riparian Rights to Priority Rights Most Troublesome Question that the People Have to Settle.

(Special to the Bonanza.)
SPOKANE (Wash.), Feb. 22.—

"Either co-operative state laws or federal law will eventually regulate the water supply, not by the riparian rights nor by the priority right but by the equitable distribution of water in the irrigated districts."

F. W. Blackman of Lawrence, regent of the University of Kansas, lays emphasis upon the foregoing in a letter to R. Insinger, chairman of the local board of control of the seventeenth National Irrigation congress, of which George E. Barstow of Barstow, Texas, is president. He suggests that the congress, which will meet in Spokane August 9 to 14, as well as future gatherings should be scientific associations for the solution of specific problems.

"The earlier congresses," he writes, "were largely modes of agitation and propaganda. Past congresses have served a useful purpose in discussing wide ranges of subjects, but sufficient progress has been made so that the future congresses may be more scientific and less popular."

"Among these specific problems demanding immediate attention I think that an irrigation law should occupy a prominent place. The relation of riparian rights to priority right is now and will be one of the most troublesome questions that the people have to settle."

"It was unfortunate that the government at its foundation did not understand something about the future cultivation of arid lands and put the land and water together making them one and inseparable, and then to divide the land into irrigation districts determined by drainage basins, and thus insure each acre within a given drainage basin its proportionate amount of water. This would have saved millions of dollars worth of property and millions of dollars of expense in legislation."

"As it is, I believe we are slowly trending toward this result; and either cooperative state laws or federal law will eventually regulate the water supply, not by the riparian right but by the equitable distribution of water in the irrigated districts.

J. F. Adams, formerly manager of the Southern Nevada Telephone company, and who is now manager of the Nevada Consolidated Telephone and Telegraph company at Carson, came down from the north yesterday morning and left in the afternoon for Goldfield. He will return to this city before he leaves for his home in the north.

"Another very important problem is the water power of the streams in the arid region. Great companies are reaching everywhere to monopolize this water power and put a perpetual tax for its use on future generations. If there is a natural resource that ought to belong to the people at large it is the water in streams and lakes."

"For domestic use, for irrigation, for transportation and for power in the west ought to see to it at once that laws are passed to give the state absolute and perpetual control and ownership of the water power of our streams. For, while we are now looking to water for irrigation, in another ten years we will be looking with as much eagerness to water for mechanical power."

"I am not a socialist, but I am positive that the future prosperity of communities and estates of this great nation depends upon the use of land, water, forests, mines and other national resources, and these must be conserved for the general good rather than squandered through private selfishness."

"There is another question that it appeared to me was needed for the benefit of the farmer himself; namely, 'how to irrigate.' I believe the congress ought to be more of an agency for the propaganda of practical instruction concerning the filling of the soil under irrigation; this on account of the large number of immigrants and settlers coming from the east to settle in irrigated districts who know nothing about farming in arid regions under irrigation. If there could be prepared a series of short papers, dealing with different subjects, such as preparation of the land, amount of water needed, how to be applied, method of cultivation or tillage and other matters, and if, subsequently, these could be printed in small leaflets and spread throughout the irrigated districts they would be a vast deal more service than the annual report."

SPORTS

Sam Hildreth and F. A. Forsythe were the lucky owners of thoroughbreds carrying off the blue ribbon events at Emeryville and Arcadia yesterday. Hildreth's clever colt, King James, with the crushing impost of 142 pounds, won the speed handicap at Arcadia and gave a sound beating to such speed marvels as Smiley Corbett, Jack Atkin, and the big train, Roseben, the pride of the east. This is the fourth stake King James has won for his owner in the last six weeks, and at the same time beating the best thoroughbreds in training. F. A. Forsythe is the proud owner of the California derby winner, his three-time stake winner in the last month, High Private, taking the event with ease, but his field was a modicum one compared to the class in which King James was the winner. Commencing today R. L. Moore, who, by the way, is an old-timer in Tonopah, and in connection with the northern at Goldfield will open a pool room at the Tonopah Club and receive both the Emeryville and Arcadia races.
